My dear Sir.

The Clarendon
Press has consented to your proposal, of which I am truly glad.

There is a fear that your publishing the introduction might interfere with the sale of the book, in that fear

I do not participate.

I give you  an extract from the Secretary's letter to me which will explain the terms on which the Press is willing to accede to your proposal.

"J. M. Cartailhac
desires election of the Cuts he must send me the list, and we will make an estimate of the cost, and this work will be preceded with on his sending us the money for the same, ~~and on~~ our being assured

After making your selection of the cuts it will be best for you to write to

Professor Price
Clarendon Press

Oxford
he is the Secretary

I hope there will be no further difficulty in the matter, about which I wish I had been able to give you an earlier answer.

Yours faithfully

W Greenwell
