Dear Mr. Cartilhas,

I hope you arrived home safely and found all well on your return. Did you go to Kite's Goly House? I wrote to you at Guildford St., telling you the times of trains &c., but have heard nothing from you since you favoured us with your visit here.

Mr Petrie has gone back to Egypt, and the day he left England

He wrote to me saying that he had not had time to write the paper which it was proposed should be read to the Anthropological Institute and afterwards printed by you. I do not know whether he wrote to you, or whether he expected me to do so, and as he was leaving England before I could write, I was unable to find out, but you will now understand that the matter is postponed till next year.

I shall be much obliged if you will return my book upon dene-holes as soon as you can as I often want to refer to it.

I have not forgotten the map showing the position of the circles in different parts of this country, but have not had time to finish it. I have however got a suitable map ready to mark, and I have no doubt I shall be able to send it to you when I write again, or very shortly after.

I think you said your late visit to England was your first, but I hope you found it sufficiently interesting and agreeable to induce

You to come again; and, should you do so, I hope you will let me know of your coming, and we may then perhaps visit some of the places you were not able to see this year.

We are all well, and join in best wishes and regards, with which I remain,

Yours very truly,

J. Lewis
