My dear Professor Cartailhac:

On my return from an inspiring journey in the West I find your very welcome postal card of July 15th, and hasten to send you my very warm regards. Every step of my delightful journey with you and all our conversations are still fresh in my memory.

I am asked by the University of California to give a course of very popular lectures on the origin of man and would be very glad indeed if you could spare me some photographs suitable for reproduction.

Believe me,

Always most sincerely yours,

Henry Fairfield Osborn

Prof. Dr. Cartailhac.

*Warmly appreciate your hospitality to
Mr. Nelson*
